What You'll See

Things are always changing on a farm, but here is the usual cast of characters:

Sheep and lambs: 100 to 300, depending on the time of year. In spring, the lambs are newborn and near the barn. In summer, they are on pasture and you can see the border collie working.

Pastured pigs: pigs don't have to be raised in concrete pens in smelly buildings. See how playful and content our Tamworth pigs are in the fields and woods. Piglets are born spring and fall.

Chickens and turkeys: no confinement buildings with big fans here. Our meat birds start as chicks in a warm brooder, then move outside to green grass.

Honeybees: our hives are managed with natural, chemical-free methods. Dave is doing some interesting work raising his own queens to manage the genetic hardiness of his colonies.

Horses Our Haflingers enjoy a visit and a friendly scratch, and love the fact that they live on pasture 24 hours a day.
